Annona

Lindsay Thurber Composite High School

Volume 15 1961-62

Nihil sine labore

Forward

In this Yearbook the Annona Staff has attempted to bring you memories of 1961-62. We hope it will help you to remember the people you knew and the classes where you studied. We would like it to remind you of the problems you triumphed over, the laughs you shared, and some of the important things that happened to you. 1961-62 is a year we should not forget, for there will never be another like it.

The Annona Staff would like to thank those who contributed their time and advice to the making of this Yearbook.

Dedication

In sincere appreciation of his devoted work as principal of the Lindsay
Thurber Composite High School 1950-1961, we dedicate this edition of the ANNONA to
the late Mr. D.C. Dandell.

"To live in hearts we leave behind
Is not to die."

Thos. Campbell

Principal's Message

More than a century ago a great American statesman said, "Liberty exists in proportion to wholesome restraint." A student who has completed Grade XI without some appreciation of the deeper meaning in this simple precept has failed, I believe, to get true benefit from his high-school years.

The restraints are of two kinds. There are the obvious ones enforced on us by laws, by convention, by employment and by family. Then there are the more important restrictions which we impose on ourselves. In regard to laws, many young people define democracy as the will of the majority, but in any truly democratic state unless this majority respects the rights of the minority, a ruthless tyranny is the result. Similarly, the individual has to impose restrictions on his own desires in order to be a truly educated person. He must learn to defer immediate satisfaction for future benefit, to sacrifice a social activity for study, to refrain from being witty at the expense of someone else, to resist the pressure of the group in the interests of doing that which is right. He must come not to overvalue money or possessions as symbols of success and should never feel that any socially useful work is beneath him. He should not be unduly elated by the praise of the crowd nor should he be unreasonably depressed by its criticism. In brief, the educated person has come to realize that true liberty can ONLY exist in proportion to wholesome restraint.

W.B. Davis

Squires

Lee Abram: Will go to Tech and wants annual Leap Year.

Harry Adams: If he inherited a million, he would "spend only half and save the rest."

Connie Aris: Red Deer.

Lyle Adams: Future dentist. If he inherited a million? "Too overwhelmed to spend it!"

Sandra Aiello: Wants strictly a woman's world. If her car wouldn't go, she'd simply have parked too long waiting for the night (knight?) to fall.

Muriel Barker: Sylvan Lake. Is interested in reading and sport. (This girl likes being a spectator, boys!)

Fred Alcock: Enjoys Fishing, Hunting and cars; will trade a scooter for a two-seater.

Karen Alexander: Aspires to be a teacher. Ideal person - "That's my secret." (Hmmm, we wonder.)

William Baugh: Future career in the army. If he found a damsel in distress, "I would attempt rescue or a kidnapping." (Watch out, girls.)

Ron Allen: Red Deer.

Marilyn Alton: Is interested in THE STATIC, clothes, part-time job. Pet peeve: charge accounts and conformity. Locked in a suit of armour? "Knock knock."

Gary Bawtinheimer: Gary thinks himself the ideal person and refuses to admit a gram of conceit. If he had a million, he would quit school.

Denis Anderson: Enjoys Fishing and Hunting two-legged dears. Pet peeve: eye-shadowed damsels. Will barter: 101 MAD magazines.

John Anderson: Counts homework one of his interests?!* Would call Charlie's Exterminating Service to get rid of rats - Is this a plug?

Dave "Shad" Baxter: Ambition: Talent scout for Playboy. How would you get rid of rats? "But we need teachers!" If I found a damsel in distress "Like, see you at the tower."

Margaret I. Anderson: Ideal person: Fido! Music and a certain guy take most of her time.

Margaret M. Anderson: If she had a million - all teachers pensioned? Watch this gal, A.T.A.

Howard Becker: A Timex watch to trade, anyone? Howard is interested in girls and rightly so, for he intends to be a beautician.

Marileen Anderson: If she were locked in a suit of armour, "I'd make sure I wasn't alone." (Who's the guy?)

Doug Anderson: Well, no biography for this guy. He wants to scrap the year book.

Helen Bennett: Helen likes long trips and R.H., but she dislikes D-day and Science.

Shirley Benson: Likes collecting records, and dancing. If she had gone on the Crusades, "Don't worry, I wouldn't have gone!"

Paul Bill: Hopes to join the RCMP. Ideal person: Fearless Fosdick (What?) Locked in armour? "I'd be canned (Like, what's with this sardine caper?)

Robert Bioletti: Aspires to be a radio technician and had he a million, he'd buy a Packard.

Donna Blacklock: To get rid of rats? "But I like rats." If Donna had a million, "Look out, Composite High!"

Sandra Boers: Ambition: Lab technician. Interests: Curling, dancing, and Bowling.

Henry Bolhorn: Will trade; his sister. If he found a damsel in distress, he would leave her there. Ambition: architect.

Rick Bond: "If I had a million, the students would sing when they saw me coming, "Here comes Santa Claus, here comes..."

William Borgen: Hopes to go to U. of A. Had he a million, he'd be where they sing "The night and you and blue Hawaii."

Valerie Bowerman: Interested in books and spectator sports. Ambition: housewife eventually!

Lynda Bowman: Benalto. Ambition: receptionist. Interests: Skating and Curling.

Eddie Bownes: Eminent skater; interested in cars and girls. Pet peeve is double-crossing girls. (Troubles lately, Ed?)

Betty Breum: Future secretary. Pet peeve: being always four steps behind.

Glen Brunner: Red Deer.

Ernest Budd: Is interested in ISCF, Hunting, Fishing and Golfing.

Dianne Budvarson: Is interested in dancing, the opposite sex and beards (Huh? beards). Ideal person: Alfred E. Newman. (Bugkin's filling up fast!)

Garry Bugg: Wants to be a draftsman. A damsel in distress? "It's not every day that you find one."

Donald Burdick: Is working on his first million. To heat a drafty castle, Don suggests a house-warming party.

Gloria Burk: Prospective teacher. To get rid of rats - hire CATS (Central Alberta Teens?)

Sharon Burk: Ambition: to get her Senior Matriculation. Pet peeve: brothers.

Marion Campbell: Will take up nursing. To get rid of rats, hire Danny Kaye.

Robert Cardinal: Red Deer.

Lorne Carson: Ambition - auditor. "To heat a drafty castle, catch the heat thief!"

Angela Carlyle: Ambition - lab-technician. She enjoys working on the Static. (Sadist!)

Bob Crawford: Would improve society by making motor cycles the standard means of transportation. Pet peeve: speed-ing tickets.

Deanna Cassels: Red Deer.

Phyllis Castella: Ideal person: Dave Brubeck. Interests: Tennis, Swimming, Progressive Jazz and horses. (knights too?)

George Crawford: Ambition: Drafting. (Drafting what? Speeding tickets like brother Bob's?) Pet peeve: year book questionnaires.

Dale Christensen: The damsel in distress would have to be a particular damsel. Goal: engineering.

Doreen Clancy: Future stenographer. Pet Peeves: stuck car doors and unheated Volkswagens.

Glen Daines: With a mil-lion in the bank, he'd operate off the interest. Pet peeve: the library bell. (Wondered who sabotaged that bell.)

Jean Clayton: Sylvan Lake. Ambition: nurse. Interests: spec-tator sports.

Barbara Code: Ambition - teacher with a B.Sc. Ideal person: Morgan the Pirate. (Dig the wild beard, eh?)

Judy Damel: To get rid of rats, just tells them that she's going steady. Ambition: private steno-grapher. Pet peeve: floor shifts (Hard on the knees?)

Lynn Cody: Likes dancing, Static, and sports. Pet peeve: a distance of 100 miles. (Hmmm, must be a knight involved.)

Larry Collicutt: Ambition: archi-tect. Pet peeve - girls with dyed hair. Favorite expression: "Wow! what a babe!" (Typical, typical).

Cliff Davis: Ambition - dentist. Ideal person: Rockefeller. (Dig that wild stock of cash!)

Judy Colwell: RCAF. Ambition: social worker.

Brian Comis: Wants to be an aeronautical engineer. Drafty castle? Then set up paper air-plane stations.

Sandra Didrikson: Ambition: Lab-technician.

Glenn Cooper: A damsel in distress? UNFIND her quick. Wo-men mean trouble. (Hey L-----)

John Cornell: On the Crusades? "I would have hidden during the battles." (Coward!)

Velda Donkin: Ambition: Secretary.

Joan Douglas: Aims to be a nurse or a deaconess. Ideal person "Dad." Interests: Hi C, Council, Annona, dancing, reading, Music.....

Amy Doyle: Thinks Mrs. Krushchev the ideal, for she puts up with Nikita. Amy intends a B. A. in psychology.

Terry Duckering: To improve society would make longer, more frequent holidays. He has the firm intention of getting out of school.

Mike Eason: Hopes to retire at age 21. His pet peeve is people who choke you with your own tie on D-day.

John Easton: Would like to trade his wife if he had one. John's aim is mechanical engineering.

Composite Raiders Clip Innisfail Team

By GEORGE YACKULIC JR.
Composite Raiders pushed over the brink finally to win basketball game Friday night. Raiders took Innisfail's first game 23-22 to pass. Girls squeezed past the league action.

Putting a quick end to another of John Smithson's hook shots is Raider John Altena (right). Smithson was high scorer for Innisfail with nine points but Red Deer Composite took a 34-23 win in Riverglen School Friday. Altena, playing one of his first games this year made several brilliant defensive plays.

This year, as there was no "B" team, Composite potential was combined into one Girls' Basketball Team, the "A" girls. Miss Joyce Gustman capably coached the girls through one of the most successful seasons they have had for some years.

In regular action, the girls were champions of the east league consisting of six teams: Ponoka, Delburne, Innisfail, Stettler, Lacombe, and Red Deer. They were undefeated in ten regular league games.

The C.W.A.S.A.A. tournament was held at Red Deer in March, with the four top east-west winners competing in a double knockout: Rocky Mountain House, David Thompson, Stettler, and Red Deer Composite.

Winning this championship for the second consecutive year, the Composite girls then had the honor of representing Central Alberta at the provincials in Lethbridge. Their first game was lost to Barrhead by a score of 37 to 29, after which the girls entered the consolation event and were matched against Castor. With a score of 26 to 18, they brought home the provincial Consolation Trophy, offered this year for the first time.

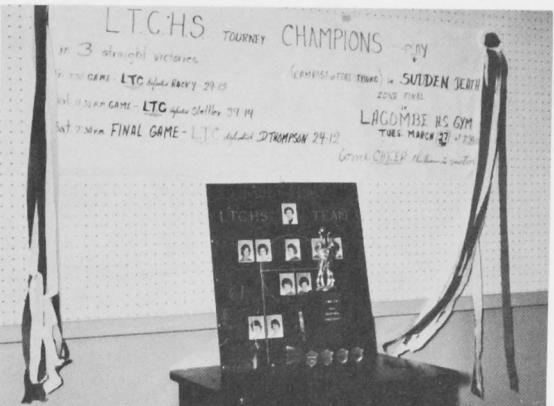

During the year, in exhibition play, three games were played with the Overtown Ladies in which the Composite won one game. The University of Alberta Cubs, in the annual exhibition match, were victorious.

The girls also participated in the Lacombe Tournament in pre-season action during the month of January; they were defeated in the final game by Stettler.

Valedictory

What is a valedictory? We find that it is a good-bye. It is not a mere "Au revoir" but a real parting. But just as in physics we learn that every action has equal and opposite reaction, so every parting is also a greeting.

We must now say good-bye to the routine which has made it easier for us to achieve our goal of finishing high school. We have all gone to school together at 9:00 A.M., five days a week, ten months a year, for twelve years. During this time we have gained a great amount of what we hope will be useful knowledge. Our parents are mainly responsible for keeping us to our routine. They have stood behind us and have encouraged us to keep working hard. We are also leaving most of the friends that we started school with and that we have kept up with through the grades. Among these friends are such types as the boy who brought a garter snake to class to help the girls and boys break the monotony of the routine. But now that we are leaving these familiar things, we can say hello to a life where we will have to assert our individualism. We will now have to choose our own field of work and to choose our friends from a wide range of people.

We must say good-bye to the place where we did homework only because we were told to do so. Even then I'll admit we were prone not to do it sometimes. Our pattern of school life has been laid out for us. The Department of Education has set our courses, established required standards for passing, and in this last year has set all our exams. These courses have been capably administered by our teachers, even though at times they must have become impatient with our lack of attention and interest. We have been used to being guided by other people but now we must prepare to say hello to a world where we decide the assignments we are going to do and we decide the goal which we will work for. From now on we do not have to read Shelly's poems or use quadratic equations unless we want to.

We will be leaving a highly organized way of learning and be entering a way of life where learning is not forced upon us but where learning is still imperative if we wish to succeed. Who knows? We may even have the pleasure of saying a new "hello" to some old comrades of L.T.C.H.S. when we meet in faraway places under new circumstances. Whatever be our adventures in the future, I hope everyone will remember and follow our motto, "Nothing Without Labour."

Michael Nelson

Class History

Our turn has finally come. We are the Graduating Class of '62 for Lindsay Thurber Composite High School. These ceremonies mark the end of twelve years of toil towards an often times dim and distant goal. But now we have arrived!

Our Grade Ten....and we are the last class to have taken Grade Ten at the Comp....has left us many memories such as that first-day confusion and our indignation at the tedious homework assignments. Rare is the student who was not embarrassed at one time or another to find himself in the wrong class. And during that first year many of us even wondered whether the teachers might have had experience as slave drivers in the past.

Grade Eleven saw a general relaxation of principles in the homework and studying fields and enabled our increased participation in extracurricular activities.

Then, last fall, we began our final year of high school. The familiar classroom sometimes seemed more conducive to sleep than to learning, but we were all determined to pass our courses. However, this determination often failed to take effect until that sudden burst of studying shortly before the departmentals. Anyway, who could do every assignment every night, especially in the face of such welcome distractions as the monthly dances and the sports activities like the newly-innovated Alumni Night? But, as our presence here tonight indicates, we have not entirely neglected our work, though I am sure every one of us has enjoyed himself.

After graduating, we will be entering a new and different world - a world of adults - as each one of us goes his separate way. But let us even then retain the active friendships and fond memories of our days at this school.

Dick Heikkinen

Dear Grads:

I have seen you advance with a studious glance,
Toward the long rows of books;
But before long you've tired -- your neighbor admired,
And you've studied not books, but "looks."

The pages you've dog-eared, and I've often feared,
For the very bindings as well;
When you've kept books too long, you've come back with the song,
"Oh, I have been sick for a spell."

But now you've departed, as others before,
And once more I think to myself:
"I'd just as soon have your 'whispering roar'
As those silent books on the shelf."

The Librarian

Good-bye to your domineering looks,
Hello to your old, worn-out books.
So long to that lofty smile
Now we have reached the top of the pile.

You venture forth the world to face
And leave us behind to continue your pace.
As I watch you leave, I'm really blue;
If only I could go with you!

A Grade Eleven Student

I'll miss your gum stuck under the desks,
Your chocolate milk spilled in the halls,
Your forgotten rubbers piled at the doors,
And your untidy posters all over the walls.

But as I say bood-bye, I can't help but remark
That this bit of advice you should heed:
Wherever you go, leave as many kind words
As in your desk you left old sunflower seeds!

Your Favorite Janitor
